

Problem Statement

Those whose main form of commuting is walking need more information on what is the best type of shoe to wear depending on different climates and length of walks.

Details

It is difficult to decide on what shoe to wear for the entire day as a person whose main form of transportation is walking. Depending on the weather in your area, the length of your walk, and the condition of the ground you are walking on, different shoes are best fit for different conditions. Therefore it would be beneficial for people to come together and share their experiences with different footwear.
